

Guide for two-person livestream to Facebook

Go to your Facebook page for your organization.

Open another tab or webpage and go to www.messenger.com or launch messenger in Facebook

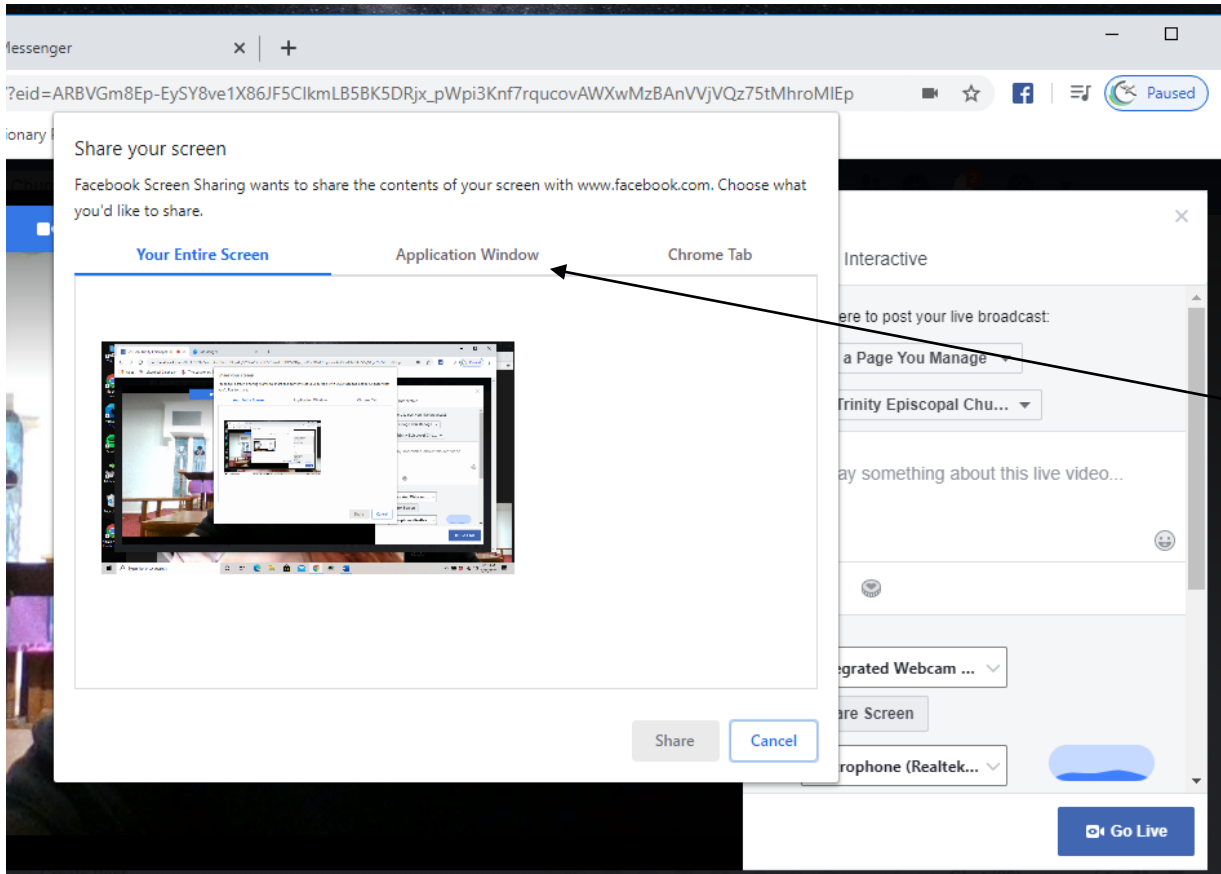

Launch a video call with the person you want to have online with you

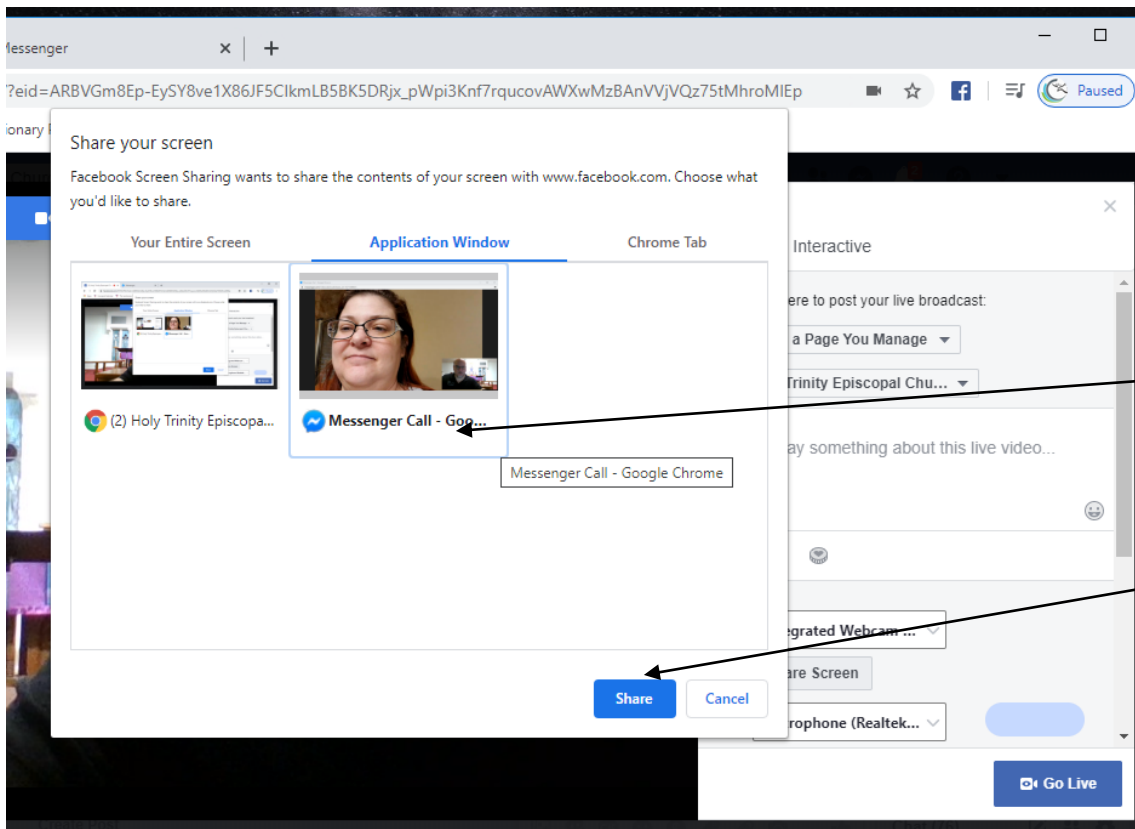

Once the call is running make sure sound and video is working

Now go back to the live stream setup and click on the Share Screen button

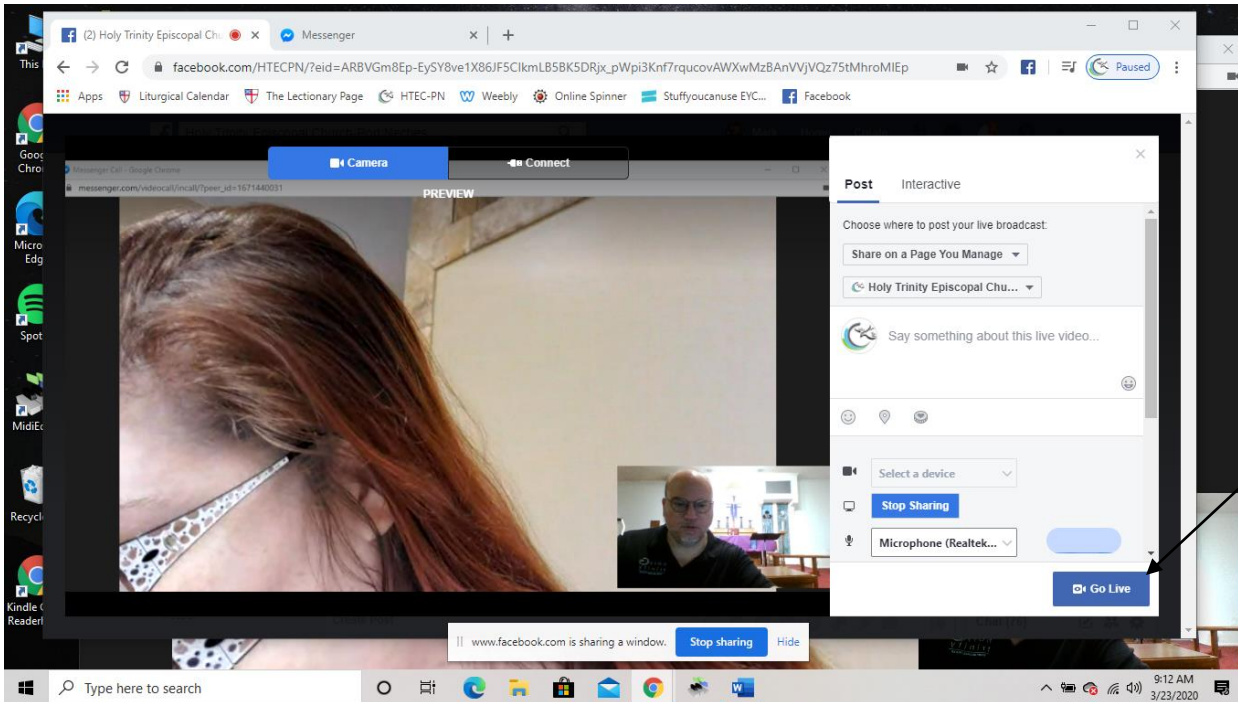

You will see this new window. Choose the Application window

Select the window for just the messenger call and click the Share button

You should now see the messenger call in the Live Stream preview, you are now ready to start the live stream

Click the GO Live button
to start

Troubleshooting:

1. If your Computer or device has chosen, the wrong camera it can be changed in the messenger app before you launch the live stream.
2. Make sure the person you call is in landscape mode, if they are using a phone or tablets it will be too narrow if they are holding it in portrait. This should not be a problem if they are on a computer.
3. If you can, ask the person called to use an external microphone, or even headphone that have a microphone built it, this will help with feedback or echo.
4. Facebook Messenger only appears to work in Chrome

This process should also work with other programs like Zoom, if it is running on your computer, you should be able to chose it to share on you livestream.
